The Torso Killer Confessions

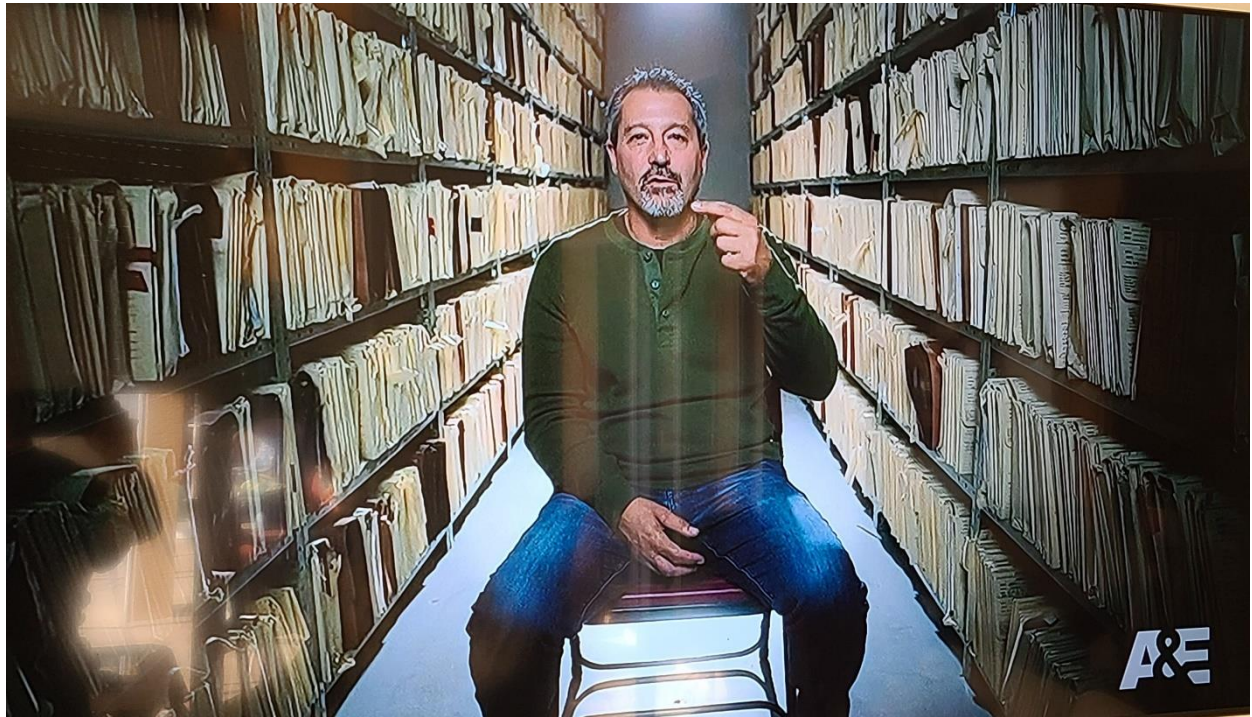

I was invited to the Cineflix private screening of the premier of "The Torso Killer Confessions", a documentary of how the confessions of serial killer, Richard Cottingham, were obtained by Chief (Ret.) Rob Anzilotti of Bergen County Prosecutor's office.

I attended with my daughter, Laura Marie, and my son, Vernon Anthony, and met with the producers and Cineflix staff.

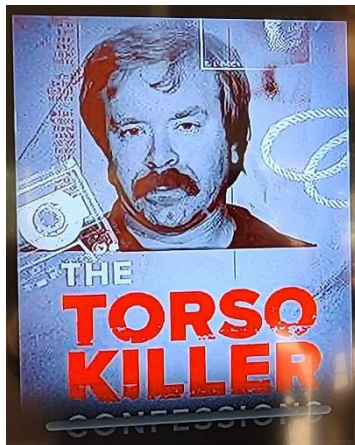

I finally met Rob Anzilotti and Dennis Calo, who prosecuted Cottingham for the Mary Ann Carr case under "signature theory".

This was a very professional documentary that revealed, for the first time, a series of confessions obtained from Richard Cottingham, a vicious serial killer responsible for a number of sexually sadistic murders beginning in the 1960's in the tri-state area. These cases would have gone unsolved if not for the work of Robert Anzilotti, who spent 15 years negotiating these confessions from a person I would describe as a psychopathic sexual sadist with a narcissistic personality and a victim's worst nightmare.
